Great Northern Last Hope Of Promoters Raising Dempsey's $100,000

BULLETIN

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 27.—The fate of the Dempsey-Gibbons battle lies in the hands of Jack Kearns. And Kearns is in the mood to act as executioner. Unless Kearns relents—unless the manager of the world's champion is willing to send his man into conflict with Tom Gibbons for a gross number of $210,000 then it's 50 to 1 that the fight must be called off. For it seems almost humanly impossible for the promoter to sell enough tickets between now and July 2 to raise nearly $200,000 in cash which will be needed by that date. The situation is desperate.

SHELBY, Mont., June 27.—Holding the bag being an esteemed pastime locally, officials of the Great Northern railroad are supposed to come forward at Great Falls today and take a generous grasp at the neck of the empty sack that once contained a flourishing enterprise, known as the Dempsey-Gibbons bout for the heavyweight championship. The railroad men have virtually consented to oblige in this respect, according to State Senator J. W. Speer, attorney for Great Falls' interest involved and by nightfall he hopes that the necessary $100,000 covering Dempsey's contract, will either be in hand or available for instant liquidation.

Health Policy Murderous, Cry Of Commoners

LONDON, June 27.—Uproar broke out in the house of commons this afternoon when Laborite members attacked the government's public health policy as "murderous." J. Maxton, of Bridgeton, and J. A. Wheatley, of Glasgow, Laborites, who made the attack, were ordered suspended but refused to leave the chamber.

"Members of the government responsible for the health policy are murderers," shouted Wheatley.

Both members were ejected by the sergeant-at-arms.

After the excitement had died down, Rev. C. C. Campbell, a clergyman, who represents the constituency at Kamlachie, repeated the charge of "murder" against the government.

Disorder was threatened again, but the clergyman-legislator was quickly suspended and ordered out.

MARTIAL LAW IN OKMULGEE, OKLA.

Governor Calls Out Guards To Cope With Secret Mob Intimidations

OKMULGEE, Okla., June 27.—Five hundred national guardsmen today placed Okmulgee county under martial law by order of Governor J. C. Walton, who declared that city and county authorities had shown themselves unable to cope with "lawlessness which may burst into flames."

The governor's action followed receipt of information that the county was being terrorized by secret organizations which have taken the law into their own hands and embarked upon a campaign of intimidation. A local minister and two other citizens are said to have taken the lead in appealing to the governor for protection.

CLUB WOMEN GREET 500 GUESTS

Close of Greatest Year Is Celebrated by Meeting In New Building

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
Of The Evening News Staff

"It takes a heap o' livin' in a house to make it home," sang one of America's home poets, and there are no American home folks who grasp and cherish his thought more keenly than Glendale women of the Tuesday Afternoon club, owners of a club home, built from their dreams and striving of years.

In this wonderful club home over 500 members and guests celebrated yesterday the close of the greatest year in the club history, and participated in the first annual luncheon and meeting in the new building.

The beauty in architecture and furnishing of Glendale's Spanish-California clubhouse is recognized throughout California and other states, and yesterday Tuesday Afternoon club officers and members received in their home a group of guests to share in the happiness of the day.

While many to whom invitations were sent were unable to accept, there was a large company of guests seated at the table of honor at the luncheon.

Guests of Honor

Mayor Spencer Robinson represented the city of Glendale, and other guests were Mrs. G. D Stephens, founder of the Women's club of Santa Monica; Mrs. J. B. Lorbeer, first vice-president of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's clubs; Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley, past vice-president-at-large of the California Federation of Women's clubs; Mrs. Russell Waters, past president of the Friday Morning club, past president of the Los Angeles district and past president of the State Federation; Mrs. Charles S. McKelvey, state parliamentarian; Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, past president of the Tuesday Afternoon club and past president of the Los Angeles district; Mrs. Florence C. Porter, past president of the Los Angeles district; Mrs. W. C. Mabry, president of the Thursday Afternoon club of Glendale; Mrs. W. A. Mead, president of the Hollywood Women's club and member of the committee planning for the national gathering in Los Angeles next year; Mesdames H. E. Bartlett, R. A. Blackburn and C. E. Hutchinson, past presidents of the Tuesday Afternoon club; Mrs. E. B. Moore, president of the Glendale Parent-Teacher Federation; Mrs. B. H. Brigham, past president of the Ventura County Federation.

Seated at the same table were officers of the club, curators of the sections and representatives of the Glendale and Los Angeles newspapers.

Attractive luncheon tables were arranged in the banquet hall, the tea room and in the palm court to accommodate the large crowd. Mrs. Colin Cable, chairman of the hospitality committee and Mrs. C. O. Pulliam, chairman of the decoration committee, were in charge of plans and at the close of the luncheon they were heartily congratulated for their successes.

RESPITE FOR PRESIDENT IN UTAH

Harding Visits Zion National Park for First Rest on Speaking Trip

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service

CEDAR CITY, Utah, June 27.—President Harding left the world of pullman cars and speech-making today and plunged into the wilderness of Southern Utah for the first real respite he has had from crowds and confusion since leaving Washington a week ago.

Under the guidance of army officers and experienced woodsmen, the chief executive left his private car here early this morning and embarked upon a sixty-five mile motor trip into the primeval fastness of Zion National park, the newest of the great national preserves which dot the unsettled west.

The Zion park trip was injected into the presidential schedule in order to provide a rest from the continual speech-making and handshaking that have marked his western tour, and at the same time to give the president a glimpse of the west, as it was before the age of autos and electricity.

Off Tourist Trail

Zion park is intimately associated with the Mormon settlement of Utah. It was named by Brigham Young, the famous Mormon pioneer, and is as yet off the beaten tourist trails that are to be found in the Yellowstone and the Yosemite, which the president also will visit on this tour. It is filled with the unusual and astonishing formations that delight the geologist, and in some respects is even now virtually unexplored.

From the presidential special at Cedar City this morning, the president and Mrs. Harding and their party were loaded into autos and taken over a newly-constructed road for sixty-five miles to the entrance to the park. The motor cavalcade traveled carefully, not alone because of the newness and dangers of the untraveled road, but also because Mrs. Harding had in mind the fateful auto accidents which marked presidential motor journeys in the west, the last example of which was seen at Denver last Sunday when three lives were lost. The road today had been carefully gone over before the presidential caravan set out.

Spend Day In Park

"The morning tints" of the Wasatch mountain range have been described as the most beautiful to be found in the world, and the description seemed amply justified this morning when the presidential party rode off to the towering peaks that dot the park. They appeared yellow, mauve and grey in the early morning light.

The president planned to spend the entire day viewing the wonders of the park, returning over the same road late in the afternoon to rejoin his train and resume his speech making way westward.

After an all night ride tonight, tomorrow will find the president in Idaho, the home state of one of the bitterest critics of his administration, Senator William E. Borah, Barring mishaps, the president will deliver two speeches in Idaho, one at Pocatello at noon, and another late in the day at Idaho Falls.

HOLD COSTS AT $60 PER PUPIL FOR TEACHING

Glendale Ranks Third in Economy, Southland Summary Reveals

ELEMENTARY education is economical in Glendale, according to figures revealed today regarding the cost of instruction per pupil. A tuition of only $60 would have to be charged for one year in the grammar grades, according to Richardson D. White, city superintendent. According to information published in the Arrowhead magazine by Long Beach last month, Glendale is third lowest in elementary educational costs, Whittier and Pomona being the only two other southern California cities operating on less money per pupil.

More than $320,000 will be required to operate the local grammar school system next term, according to the budget approved by the board of education last night at its offices, 107-A South Brand boulevard. This total is estimated on 5250 enrollment, an increase of 25 per cent over the term just closed.

Need $372,335 Revenue

Altogether $372,335 must be received in revenue from state and county taxes, according to Mr. White, to meet all of the demands of the Glendale grammar school district. About one-third of this sum will come from the state's share in education, such taxes being levied on the corporations to a large extent.

The cost of maintaining the school system for the next fiscal year is itemized as follows: Administration, including salaries of superintendent, business managers, office employes and necessary office supplies, $14,760; teachers' salaries, $242,425; school supplies, $15,000; library, $2,800; janitors' salaries, $23,000; janitor's supplies, $2,000; fuel, light, water, power, $7,000; repairs, $3,000; estimated rental for high school plant, $3,000; industrial insurance as required by law, $400; school health department $3,200; summer playgrounds, $1000; transportation $300, community center $300. The total of these items is $329,185.

Half Million Investment

Over $546,000 will be spent for real estate, new buildings and additions. Most of this will be covered by the $500,000 bond issue and the $11,000 balance which is now in the building fund. There will remain a balance of $35,150 which will be paid out of taxation as a portion of the $372,335 mentioned.

Capital outlays are itemized as follows: Real estate, $100,000. new buildings, $356,500; improvement of grounds, $8,000; alterations, $52,650; furniture, $26,400; instructional apparatus, $1000; euipment, $1,600.

The budget also includes an estimate of $12,000 to cover emergency expenses, and $5,000 to cover outstanding bills.

Final plans for the addition to the Doran School were submitted by Architect Alfred F. Priest of 1422 North Central avenue and approved. Bids will be received July 10.

Contracts Awarded

The general contract for the construction of the addition to the Broadway School was awarded to T. H. Addison of 130 South Cedar street for $22,183. The heating contract was awarded to the Potter Radiator Company of Los Angeles for $532. The combined amount of these two contracts is $22,715 or $5,285 less than the estimation in the budget.

Specifications insist upon the use of concrete building blocks. These are manufactured at 440 South San Fernando road by the Concrete Brick & Tile company.

Bids received for the general contract were as follows: North Pacific Construction company, $23,856; Witt & Ike, $27,307; May & Hellman, $23,618; Bruin, Steed & Steed, $24,346, minus maple floors; George W. Campbell, $22,200, minus slate blackboards; Fred Walsh, $23,100, minus slate blackboards; Elmer Elliot, $22,822.

Bids for the heating were received from the Pacific Gas Radiator company for $526 and the Coast Radiator company for $635.

The resignation of Miss Edna F. Duffy of Los Angeles from the faculty of the Wilson Avenue Intermediate school was received. She has accepted a position in the Los Angeles school system.

DOLLAR'S BUYING POWER INCREASES

Purchases 2 Cents' Worth More Now Than It Did Thirty Days Ago

By W. H. ATKINS
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Because of the general decline in the prices of a large number of commodities, the purchasing power of the American dollar is now two cents more than it was a month ago, the federal reserve board announced today in making public an optimistic review of general business conditions.

Continued heavy production of basic materials along with full employment and good wages for labor were cited as outstanding features in the favorable industrial situation.

Buying strength of American people is now being exerted at maximum despite the seasonal changes. Production and shipment of goods by factories continue in heavy volume throughout the United States. Labor of all kinds is finding employment. Some industries have granted wage increases in the general demand for labor. Larger demand for goods has resulted in steady increase in the size of payrolls among some classes of industrial establishments. Wage advances were most general in the cotton, steel, meat packing and sugar refining industries.

Farm Labor Short

The board's reports show there is a shortage of farm labor. In agriculture the condition of winter and spring wheat is less favorable than a year ago. The cotton crop is in slightly better condition, owing to more favorable growing conditions in Texas.

Heavy purchasing of goods is indicated. Loadings of freight on railroads exceed all other records for this season of the year. Both retail and wholesale trade was larger than last month. Wholesalers report larger sales of meat, hardware and shoes. Sales of clothing and dry goods decreased. A feature of the money prosperity is an increase of $38,000,000 in circulating money. Bank loans in principal cities which have been increasing since early in the year declined sharply last month.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Wed at Church

One of the prettiest of the early summer weddings took place last night at the First Methodist church of Burbank, where Miss Mary Ostergard, daughter of Mrs. Amanda Ostergard of 211 West Garfield street, became the bride of Alvah Hall of Glendale, son of Mrs. Mary Hall of Corcoran, Calif.

Rev. V. Hunter Brink, pastor of the Central Avenue Methodist church of Glendale, officiated, performing the ring ceremony at 8:15 o'clock before a company of sixty friends.

The church was beautifully decorated with pink carnations, pink gladioli and plumosis, an arch being arranged over the altar where the bridal party stood during the ceremony.

A program of bridal music preceded the ceremony. Mrs. Grace Lovejoy, pianist of Burbank, and John Hoist, organist of Los Angeles, gave a duet.

"I Love You Truly" (Bond), and "At Dawning" (Cadman), were sung by Mrs. Eloise Horton Kirkpatrick. A trio was played by Mrs. Gladys Schnor, pianist, Mrs. Lovejoy violinist, and Mr. Davis, cellist.

Mr. Hoist at the pipe organ played the Lohengrin bridal chorus for the entrance of the bridal party, and later the Mendelssohn march.

Miss Ostergard was attended by her sister, Mrs. Amel Goodrich of Burbank as matron of honor; and by Miss Lucy Hall of Corcoran, Misses Ida and Ethel Pettit of Hollywood, and Miss Winifred Booker of Eagle Rock as bridesmaids. They were gowned in pastel-shaded organdy, worn with Leghorn hats. They carried arm bouquets of sweetpeas to match their gowns.

Eleanor Marek of Glendale was the flower girl and Arthur Hagen was the ring bearer.

Miss Ostergard entered with her uncle, J. S. Ripley of Glendale. She wore a white silk crepe bridal gown and long white veil. Her bouquet was of bride's roses, sweetpeas and maidenhair fern.

Mr. Hall was attended by Noble J. Ripley of Glendale as best man. The ushers were friends of Mr. Hall at the University of Southern California. They were J. Daniels, Robert Boring, Charles Alverson of Los Angeles, and John Juvenall of Monrovia.

From the church the bridal party, relatives and guests motored to the bride's home in Glendale for a reception, at which Mrs. Ostergard was assisted by Miss Emily Kopp, Miss Julia Goodsell and Miss Edith Reynolds of Los Angeles.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hall have countless friends in Glendale and other parts of California. Mrs. Hall, who was born and grew up in Burbank, is a graduate of the Los Angeles Normal school. Following her graduation she taught at Corcoran, and it was there that she met Mr. Hall. During the past two years she has taught in Eagle Rock. Mr. Hall graduated recently from the department of pharmacy at the University of Southern California.

They received many useful and beautiful gifts from California and Ohio friends.

After a short trip they will be at home for the summer with Mrs. Hall's mother at 211 West Garfield street.

BESTLAND PLANS WEEKLY AUCTION

Changes Furniture Business Into Mart for Sale of Household Goods

The opening of the Bestland auction room at 625 South Brand boulevard will, it is claimed, fill a decided need in the life of Glendale by permitting householders to furnish their homes with a good grade of furniture at prices that will show a substantial reduction over the average run.

Charles Bestland, the proprietor, brings to this new store the experience of over twenty years gained in the United States, Canada and England, and his knowledge of furniture values fits him admirably for the line of work in which he plans to engage. He has been conducting his establishment as a furniture store in the past, but he intends to clear out a great amount of the stock that he now has in the store and replace it with new stock from his immense warehouse stock, holding regular weekly auctions at which every kind of furniture will be offered for sale.

In addition to the furniture end, Mr. Bestland plans to add a real estate department to his business, handling realty listings and disposing of the contents of homes as well as of the residences themselves. For this purpose he will secure the services of a real estate expert, who will have charge of this work.

The store is now being renovated and lights are being installed in front of the building that will attract the attention of customers to the establishment.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Help Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Advertisement.

A careful investigation of the entire subject was made, and recommendations will be submitted to the commission that are expected to have an important bearing on traffic conditions in this region.

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

"Over the Hill," the William Fox picture now showing at the Glendale Theatre, is a phenomenally successful film. It ran for a solid year in New York and has enjoyed extended runs elsewhere.

The film story was made from one of Will Carleton's "Farm Ballads" by Paul H. Sloane, and was directed by Harry Millarde. The part of Ma Benton, the principal character, is played by Mary Carr, four of whose children also take roles as her "reel" children.

The phenomental success of "Over the Hill" is occasioned by the fact that it is close to the hearts of the people, depicting vividly their trials and tribulations, their joys and pleasures, sorrow as bitter as death, and in the end a great, pulsing throb of happiness and readjustment of all differences.

"Over the Hill" ranks as one of the greatest photoplays ever made and can be seen over and over again to advantage.

SHELBY REACHES END OF ITS ROPE

banker, made some vague illusions to the fact that he "hoped to have something definite to report" about the money today. The senator's statement, however, goes further, and is equally authoritative. He is the banker's mouthpiece.

At End of Rope

The sense of his remarks is that the money will either be advanced today or tomorrow by the Great Northern or it will not be advanced at all. The railroad, it seems, is the last shot in Montana's ammunition bag.

"Do you mean to say that there is no one else in the entire state to whom you can appeal?" we asked him.

"That is about the size of it," was the reply. "There is no gambling promoter here of the Rickard type. There are business men, with money, but they remain business men to the last. Mr. Stanton is interested in this fight merely from a banker's standpoint. He has loaned the promoters money and wants to help them just as he would help any client. Naturally he could hardly be interested in what might be termed an investment in the bout at this late date."

Returning to the subject of the railroad, the senator declared that it stood to win heavily on the fight if it could be put over financially in a last hour rush, and therefore was a most appropriate candidate for the "slug," although the senator failed to make use of precisely that language.

Railroad Will Profit

"The Great Northern's expense in making preparations to handle a crowd has been magnified," he declared. "If the fight failed to materialize the railroad's loss would be comparatively slight. If the fight went over big the railroad would profit accordingly. It seems to me that officials of the road must realize that they are buttering their own bread by helping the Shelby people. The money would merely cover the purchase of tickets and these could be disposed of if a real campaign was instituted."

"But suppose the railroad could sell only $60,000 worth of tickets," we suggested.

"Who would fall heir to the $40,000 loss? The railroad?"

Anxious for Advertising

"The railroads, indubitably," Mr. Speer was quite emphatic on that point. "But," he added, "the Great Northern could charge the amount to advertising or whatever it wished and inform itself that the price was as cheap as a washable necktie."

The road, it appears, is anxious to advertise Glacier National park, a hundred miles to the west, and could take no more immediate or expeditious means, according to the senator. In addition, some of the loss, if any, would be covered by whatever passenger traffic might be attracted to Shelby on the day of the fight, he declared.

Gibbons Becomes Indian

Meantime Jack Kearns, Mr. Dempsey's man of business, is due to arrive here on an early morning train and perhaps will open his mouth and say something. Mr. Kearns is known to have done this before. He will be just in time to witness the ceremony of initiating Gibbons into the tribe of Blackfoot Indians. Chief Black Bear has served notice on Thomas that he (Thomas) is to be adopted as his (Curley Bear's) foster son, and has suggested this morning as the most suitable to his aboriginal convenience. A good time will be had by all.

Stanton Bolts Meeting

SHELBY, Mont., June 27.—Lumbermen, holding an equity in the arena that was erected here for the Dempsey-Gibbons bout July 4, attempted to force payment from the fight promoters by July 2 at a conference held yesterday in the office of Mayor Jim Johnson. A feature of the early debate was the fact that George H. Stanton, Great Falls banker, who advanced some of the money to float the proposition, bolted from the meeting after making what he declared to be his "final proposition" to the lumbermen.

PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

With the Frenchman, Criqui, and the Filipino, Villa, each adorned by a world's boxing champion title, the United States seems to have lost a monopoly it has held for a good many years.

As far as the boxing game is concerned, the fact that some of the world's titles are distributed elsewhere than in the United States is bound to react for the benefit of this sport.

Our old friend, Battling Siki, still continues his Marathon bout against vin rouge. A lot of the boys can tell him just where he will land in the end.

Some of the newspapers devote a considerable amount of space to an alleged offer made by Gibbons' manager to bet a big sum of money on the chances of his man against Dempsey, and that Kerns, the latter's manager, refused to back his protege. This is simply in line with all the other stuff being perpetrated to make the bout look like a real match with some doubt as to the ultimate result. Had Kearns snapped up the bet all the propaganda already sent out would have been nullified.

According to reports of unsatisfactory advance sales of seats for the Dempsey-Gibbons fight, there seems to be a likelihood that there will be wide and vacant spaces in the arena as well as in the desert surrounding.

At this time last year Jimmie O'Connell, now with the New York Giants of the National league, was the leading hitter of the Pacific Coast league with an average of 409 per cent.

At least the promoters of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight cannot be accused of lack of originality. James F. Dougherty has been named the third man in the ring. However, there is still time for one of the principals to interpose an objection, and then we can go through the old-time stunt of wrangling over who will be the referee.

VARIED PROGRAM AT BIG FESTIVAL

Glendale Foothill Assn. Eat Strawberries and Hear Music and Speeches

Food for thought as well as bounty for the "inner man" was provided at last night's Strawberry Festival, held in the auditorium of the Grand View school, under the auspices of the Glendale Foothill Improvement association. Alexander Mitchell, president of the association, was master of ceremonies and delivered the introduction to a well-balanced and entertaining program full of worth-while featurs.

W. L. Baker presented some thoughts on the transportation problem of the community, pointing out what was needed in the way of additional service and what steps were being taken, and required to be taken, to secure their service.

Mr. Vose, a newcomer, spoke of increasing property valuations, pointing out that the Glendale Foothill Improvement association was accomplishing a great deal in this direction.

L. T. Rowley, truant officer, talked on the general development of the community, with relation to the school and its problems.

Group of Songs

A musical number was introduced at this point, Miss Gladys Alexander rendering a group of soprano solos, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Alexander Mitchell.

Mrs. Alma Danford, Glendale city librarian, next spoke, urging in well chosen words that there be full co-operation between the branch libraries and the main instituton. Mrs. Danford was assured that the people of the northwest section are proud of their new branch and that they are getting a great deal of good from it.

Miss Maude Nicol and Miss Celia Davidson gave interpretations of Scotch dances in costume, accompanied on the piano by Miss Jessie Davidson, sister of Celia, both from Long Beach: Mrs. Bessie Morgan sang a number of Scotch and Irish songs, also accompanied by Miss Jessie Davidson; little Velda Meadows danced fairy dances and little Gene Fitch, in tomboy costume, recited several clever pieces.

Extend Mail Service

Alexander Mitchell delivered a strong pleea for new members to strengthen the association, so that more united work could be done for district improvement. He brought the good news that starting July 1, residents of the northwest section will have their mail delivered from the Glendale postoffice.

The next announcement met with great favor. It came in the form of plates piled mountain high with luscious red strawberries, surmounted with generous glacial caps of thick whipped cream, each plate carrying an ample slab of home-made cake.

The refreshments were served by members of the program and entertainment committee, of which Mrs. Charles Ellsperman was chairman.

The next regular meetinig of the Glendale Foothill Improvement association has been postponed from July 2 to July 9, it was announced at the close of last night's festival.

REALTORS FAVOR MULTIPLE LISTS

Salesmen and Brokers Give Indorsement to System Of Handling Sales

Unanimous indorsement of the multiple listing system was accorded by the twenty-five local salesmen and brokers who attended last night's meeting in the Citizens' building, under the auspices of the multiple listing committee of the Glendale Realty Board.

The meeting was called by the committee for the explicit purpose of hearing all sides of the question, so that they might report back to the board. "As a result of the meeting," states James W. Pearson, chairman of the committee in charge, "the report will be 100 per cent for and none against."

Peter Hanson led the list of speakers with a few words on the purpose of the meeting, after which E. P. Hayward talked on "How to List."

He was followed by Fred L. Kile, from his office, former secretary and president of the Beloit, Wis., Realty Board, who told how the multiple listing system had been phenomenally successful in Beloit.

Charles B. Guthrie then spoke on "Oranization and Loyalty," delivering a characteristic address that was a rallying call to duty, as well as a complete vindication of the multiple listing system.

Following Mr. Guthrie's speech, the meeting was thrown into an open discussion, whereupon it developed that the unanimous opinion of those present was that the system in question was the only logical one and would ultimately be adopted everywhere.

Celebrate Garage's Birthday With Dance

The first anniversary of the opening of the Pellegrini Brothers' Garage at 1321 South San Fernando road will be celebrated Saturday night by a community dance.

The Pellegrini Brothers, Ford Pellegrini and Philip Pellegrini, who reside at 1335 South San Fernando road, have made many friends since starting in business locally a year ago. They are expecting to be hosts to a large number of them at the approaching celebration.

Good music will be on hand, according to Ford Pellegrini. He announced this morning that the garage would be attractively decorated for the occasion and that there would be plenty of refreshments for everybody.

sketches of yellow roses, were used to carry out the club colors, green and yellow.

Mrs. Cable again displayed her ability in the delightful menu. She was assisted in serving by Mesdames Charles Temple, Charles Jones, J. C. Waite, Horace Hosford, C. H. Meadows, A. M. Draper, Brown, W. E. Cleveland, Albert D. Pearce, H. Lee Clotworthy, Emma Batz, H. H. Pettit, and by the following high school girls, Dorothy Houston, Catherine Stofft, Evelyn Hunt, Margaret Longley, Marjorie Temple, Caroline Ayars and Lucile Beach.

Assisting Mrs. Pulliam were Mesdames A. L. Baird, A. W. Beach, J. M. Eyerick, Charles Guthrie, W. L. Truitt and W. W. Worley.

Pleasures of the luncheon hour were the presentation of Mayor Robinson, Glendale's singing mayor, who, after a short greeting, sang, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms;" the introduction of other guests of honor; the presentation of curators of sections for brief reports; the presentation of Mrs. John C. Dunn, retiring secretary of the Tuesday Afternoon club, who is corresponding secretary of the Los Angeles district; the reading of a telegram from Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, first vice-president and chairman of ways and means, who is visiting in Seattle; and a brief tribute paid by Mrs. Campbell to absent and deceased past presidents.

Artists Entertain

Upon gathering in the auditorium after lunch the club company was delightfully entertained by a group of young women artists of Glendale, presented by Mrs. Freeman McG. Kelley, chairman of program.

Once each year it is the custom of the club to invite Glendale's young artists to entertain and the program yesterday was of unusual merit.

Miss Lois Olmsted, who has just won the scholarship prize in music offered at the University of Southern California, opened the program with a piano solo "Pastorale Vareii" (Mozart). Miss Olmsted is extremely talented and gives promise of great accomplishment.

A group of vocal numbers was given by Miss Elizabeth Mottern, accompanied by Miss Veda Knapp. Miss Mottern was winner of the U. S. C. scholarship last year, and needs no introduction to Glendale music lovers. She sang "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes" (Vincent Jones); "Song of the Robin Woman" (Cadman); and "I Sing to Thee" (Roy Lamont Smith).

Following there was a violin and harp duet, "Rondina" (Kreisler) by Dorothy Watson and Marjorie Bailey.

Glee Club Sings

Glendale audiences are always pleased to hear the high school girls' glee club, directed by Mrs. Charles A. Parker, and yesterday the school signers delighted with a group of songs, "The Morn," "White Butterflies" and "Garden of Flowers so Fair" from the cantata, "Garden of Flowers" (Denza).

Another talented young artist is Miss Marjorie Bailey, harpist, who played "Russian Fantasy" (Moscowski) and the much loved Spanish song "La Paloma."

Closing the program was a group of clever readings by Miss Doris Packer. She gave a sketch of a club session and an account of a baseball game.

The club session held following the program was of intense interest, featured by the report of Mrs. M. E. Plasterer, treasurer, and the reports of Mrs. Daniel Campbell, club president and chairman of finance. An account of these reports is given in another column of this edition of The Glendale Evening News.

Other events of the meeting were the flag salute led by Mrs. Lillian Dow, patriotic chairman; the announcement that on July 19 the club members will entertain as guests World war veterans; that there will be a social evening for club husbands in July; that there will be card parties at the clubhouse every Tuesday afternoon; that the first board meeting will be held Monday, July 16; that to date $712 has been realized on rentals of the clubhouse; passing of amendment providing that a club member will be eligible for life membership after two years' membership in the club and the payment of $250.

Burn Receipted Bills

Special mention should be made of the burning of receipted bills presented by curators of sections and chairmen of committees for gifts made for furnishing the club house.

The crowning feature of the day was the installation of the officers-elect by Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's clubs. Mrs. Toll is very near to the hearts of Tuesday Afternoon club officers and members and being a member of the Tuesday Afternoon club her presence yesterday was a real delight.

In installing the officers she called each by name and in a beautiful and impressive manner charged each with the duties and responsibilities of office.

New Officers

Those installed were Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president; Mrs. C. W. Houston, second vice-president; Mrs. William Hunter, recording secretary; Mrs. Frank Ayars, corresponding secretary; Mrs. M. E. Plasterer, treasurer; Mesdames H. E. Bartlett, J. T. Crampton, Lillian Dow, E. W. W. Hayward, A. A. Barton, directors.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, first vice-president, who is in Seattle, and Mrs. J. E. Sargent, newly-elected director, is in Yosemite, and were not present for installation.

Appointments for the year so far determined by Mrs. Campbell, were announced as:

Mrs. E. W. Hayward, program chairman; Mesdames H. R. Boyer and Helen Sawyer, accompanists; Mrs. M. E. Plasterer, adjuster; Mrs. W. P. McMullin, civics; Mrs. A. P. Findlay, general curator; Mrs. C. O. Pulliam, decoration; Mrs. Stephen Packer, gifts and memorials; Mrs. W. E. Evans, federation secretary; Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, ways and means; Mrs. C. W. Houston, year book; Mrs. C. J. Newcomb, historian; Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, house; Mrs. E. W. Gilliland, local relief;; Mrs. P. S. McNutt, parliamentarian; Mrs. S. C. Leppelman, partiotism; Mrs. T. H. Hudson, philanthropy; Mrs. J. T. Crampton, press; Mrs. John Robert White, reciprocity.

Other chairmen will be appointed and committees organized to meet the practical and cultural demands and needs of the club women. It is hoped that the club can secure a caterer for the coming year to prepare luncheons to be served at two of the Tuesday gatherings each month.

Heads of Sections

In arranging the sectional activities the following curators were announced:

Mrs. H. A. McPherson, Arts and Crafts No. 1; Mrs. Mary James, Arts and Crafts No. 2; Mrs. Max Green, Drama; Mrs. H. C. Wilcox, Literary; Mrs. C. G. Putnam, Maids and Young Matrons; Mrs. Warren Roberts, Music; Mrs. C. A. Brandstater, Parliamentary; Mrs. W. W. Jones, Shakespeare; Mrs. T. G. Widmeyre, Domestic Science; Mrs. Roy Ballagh, Fine Arts.

The Legislative section has been developed into an Americanization section, and the curator will be announced later.

Praises Officials

Activities of the Bible section are to be broadened and a curator will be announced. It is hoped that Miss Winifred Rouzer, who is traveling in the Orient, will return shortly and will give the Tuesday Afternoon club Bible section a series of talks.

Mrs. Campbell was most profuse in her appreciation for the support and co-operation of the committee chairmen, curators of sections and assistants during the past year. She expressed the hearty thanks of the club officers and members for the assistance given in the building and furnishing of the clubhouse and highly praised the sections and committees for their gifts for furnishing the club home.

Southern California Company Employes Plan Annual Outing

The Southern California Gas company will hold its fourth annual picnic Saturday in Verdugo Park.

S. C. Singer of 530 North Central avenue, manager for the San Fernando district, estimated this morning, that well over 1200 employes and relatives would attend this event. Special cars over the Pacific Electric and special busses will bring the visitors from Los Angeles, and the forty-three communities served by this company. These are scheduled to arrive shortly after 9 o'clock in the morning. From then on until 6 o'clock in the afternoon the park is expected to be the scene fo a "large time."

All regular business will be suspended by the company for the day. The local office at 124 North Maryland avenue will be closed for business purposes, although visitors from out-of-town will be invited to inspect the premises of which the 250 employes working out of it are quite proud.

Officials to Attend

William H. Kerhoff, president of the company, and A. B. MacBeth, vice president and general manager, are both expected to attend the picnic. A large number of other officials will be present also.

The chairman of the employes' picnic committee is L. H. Dell of Los Angeles. C. L. Hamilton of 131 North Belmont street is actively in charge of the program.

A ball game will be a feature of the morning. The Los Angeles Division team will play a picked team from all other divisions. G. W. Hackley of 117½ North Louise street is expected to be selected as twirler.

Food and Foolishness

Basket lunches will be opened up about noon. Ice cream, cold drinks and coffee will be served at the expense of the company.

Races and stunts will occupy a large portion of the afternoon. These will include a men's three-legged race, a woman's clothes pin race, a fat ladies' puff, a girls' rope skipping race and a boys' pie eating contest.

Music en route from Los Angeles and at the picnic grounds will be furnished by the Los Angeles Division band. This will be led by L. H. Dell, who is expected to be one of the most active present.

"Zimmie's Jazz Band" will furnish the rhythm for the dancing in the pavilion. This will be composed of F. E. Zimmerman of 365 Burchett street, drums; Ed Dawe, 521 West Elk street, saxophone; Miss Alta Jury of Eagle Rock, piano, and Ed Stockbridge of 610 West California avenue, banjo.

AIRPLANE WING

Three French engineers have designed an airplane wing that can be given an increased supporting surface in flight to make handling safer.

TERMINAL SOUGHT FOR AERIAL MAIL

Glendale's Airport Logical Location for Station, Eastman Claims

Representatives of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce have started a survey, working in co-operation with officials of that city, to secure an airplane landing field close to the Los Angeles postoffice where the terminus of the aerial mail service for this region may be established, and data already collected give the Glendale airport the most advantageous location of any of those inspected.

The Rogers airport, six miles from Los Angeles, is admitted to be more or less temporary; the Kinner airport, eight miles southeast of the city, is not recognized as an available site for a landing field in this connection; while the Clover Field landing place, twelve miles from Los Angeles, is also regarded as being too far from the Los Angeles postoffice to be able to offer the same advantages as are to be found at Glendale, with its landing field six miles from the postoffice and its permanent character that would permit the establishment of an air mail station here.

Glendale's Advantages

A. R. Eastman, director and treasurer of the Glendale Airport Association, says "The Glendale airport is the only logical place for a terminal for the aerial mail service, with its proximity to Los Angeles, the excellent connections between the two cities, and the fact that we can give long term leases on sites chosen at the Glendale airport. Mail landed here can be delivered to the Los Angeles postoffice for distribution within a very few minutes, and the permanent nature of the local airport gives it advantages that none of the others possess."

John H. Bartlett, first assistant postmaster general, in discussing the proposed air mail terminal said:

Experimental Stage

"The aerial mail is frankly an experiment; it carries no direct mail; it is a pick-up proposition. If it proves satisfactory and the management is as satisfactory in the matter of performance as in the past, and if night flying can be accomplished without loss of life or extraordinary expense, it will be possible to put on a thirty-eight hour mail service between San Francisco and New York and return. The mail charge will probably be 15, 20 and 25 cents an ounce.

"Frankly, the Postoffice Department has no intention of continuing the aerial mail as a government service; that is, such as the air service of the Army or Navy, but will let the contracts the same as is done by other means of transportation.

It is expected that Los Angeles will be served by a bifurcated route at Salt Lake in case the aerial mail is found to be feasible and practicable."

More Than Double Expected Results Obtained in Selling Campaign

So successful was the opening day of the Page Furniture Company's $40,000 reorganization sale, at 306 East Broadway, that the amount of goods set to be moved was doubled, reports William C. Page, proprietor of the store.

"The volume of business was so great, in fact," Mr. Page stated this morning, "that we couldn't take care of it and had to draft into service as salesmen four high school seniors we had working on the outside.

"Among the throngs that filled our store all day long, were several 'professional shoppers' from Los Angeles furniture stores. We identified two of them and are satisfied there were others. This shows that Los Angeles merchants have a keen eye on Glendale business.

Ad Pulls Trade

"We were particularly gratified over the pulling power of the double-page advertisement we placed in Monday's issue of The Glendale Evening News. This certainly brought and continues to bring the buyers.

"In fact, we have found it necessary to keep our store open nights in order to accommodate the crowds—so for the balance of the week we will be open until 9 o'clock every night.

"We had planned to continue this sale for thirty days, but will be sold out in less than half that time, if business continues as brisk as it started. When we have disposed of our set quota and have converted into cash the stocks of furniture and household goods allotted, we will close the sale."

This phenomenal sale of the Page Furniture Company opened Tuesday morning, June 26, with the stated purpose of liquidating a $40,000 stock of goods to raise $20,000 cash for reorganization of the business and incorporation under the laws of California.

BURBANK'S WATER SUPPLY IS PURE

Health Officer Scouts Idea Of Impurities In Wells Furnishing City

Burbank citizens need have no concern over the purity of their water supply, according to Dr. J. N. Van Meter, city health officer, the big reservoir on the hill being inspected every day to see that nothing of a contaminating nature gets into it.

"The idea that our water might contain typhoid germs is utter bosh," says Dr. Van Meter. "Our daily analysis shows it to be free of these and all other varieties of disease germs, and of a very pure quality indeed.

"The reasons for this are several. In the first place, the city pumping plant on Magnolia avenue and Lake street reaches the lower level of 200 feet below the surface, the wells being so constructed as to protect the water from coming into contact with upper strata water close to the surface.

"An idea as to the extent of our supply may be gained by considering the fact that when a pump in one well is bringing the water up at the rate of 1800 gallons per minute, the level in another well 150 feet away lowers but one foot.

"The action of the centrifugal pumps that draw out the water and send it into the reservoir is a a whirligig nature, which naturally gathers more or less sand, of which some women complain. There is absolutely nothing harmful about this sand, which may readily be filtered out.

"Our water, moreover, is aerated, by the action of the pumps, which accounts for the milky appearance it frequently has. This is an asset to a drinking water, not a drawback.

"The slight film of oil sometimes found on the water comes from the lubrication used on the pumps, and is harmless, also, preventing the formation of water moss, which provides a gathering place for certain types of bacteria."

Return to Ranch

Mr. and Mrs. McClellan, who attended the graduating exercises in Burbank, have returned to their home near Guadalupe, where they have a ranch, taking with them their niece, Miss Monzela Roach.

Alger Dewey and his father Frank Dewey, have returned from a three weeks' motor trip to Utah, during which they visited Salt Lake City, among other points.

P. M. Anderson, who is now in Wisconsin purchasing cattle, plans on returning to Burbank in two or three weeks, with two carloads of the animals, for his dairy company.

Dr. Glenn Hartley and Dr. Edgar Hartley, brothers, have left Salem, Ia., with their wives, and plan to arrive in Burbank soon, which city they will make their future home.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Seward and family, from Redlands, and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rains, from Palo Verde valley, have moved to Burbank, and are living at 353 Tujunga avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Snyder, of the Snyder nurseries, have with them as guests Mrs. Snyder's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hiller, from Oklahoma, who have come to California to locate.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Barrett, of Providencia avenue, recently entertained Mr. Barrett's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Barrett, from Monrovia.

Because— I Am a Woman!

"I would be untrue to myself, did I not attempt to keep hair and hands and complexion in their very best condition."

This logical reasoning is responsible for the appeal which our Marinello beauty service has for refined woman.

DE MOLAYS WILL INSTALL OFFICERS

Initiation and Farewell to Mark Ceremonies at Lodge Tomorrow

Members of the local De Molay Chapter will meet at the Masonic Temple tomorrow night for a program that will include the conferring of the second degree on five candidates, the farewell ceremony for two members of the order who have attained the age of 21 and who are graduating from its ranks; and the installation of the new officers for the ensuing term, according to an announcement by Francis W. Read, master councillor. The degree work will be started at 7 o'clock, and the other ceremonies will follow this part of the exercises.

The two members who are leaving the order on attaining their majority are James D. Thomson, the first master councillor of the chapter, who retired in March; and Forrest L. Jordan, and the farewell ceremony that is to mark the close of their connection with the chapter will be in charge of the retiring officers, as will be the degree work.

Francis W. Read, as retiring master councillor, will act as installing officer, being assisted by James D. Thompson as installing marshall and by Ira L. Vance and Joseph S. Thompson, members of the advisory council. The three main officers of the chapter who will be installed are Paul O. Morgan, master councillor; Allen K. Pollock, senior councillor; and Velentine Hollingsworth, junior councillor. The retiring officers are Francis W. Read, master councillor; Stillman Chase, senior councillor; and Allen K. Pollock, junior councillor.

Besides the above named officers there are seventeen appointive offices to be filled, and the candidates for these offices will be installed at the same time.

Kents on Way East Find Warm Weather

Word has been received at the R. L. Kent Company office, 128 South Brand boulevard, that Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kent and children and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kent are now motoring in Ohio on their way to Washington, where they visit over the week-end.

At St. Louis the weather was very warm, according to Mr. Kent's brief message, and it is continuing warm along the way. The Kent party stayed in Kansas City during the Rotary international convention. They plan to visit New England before steering their car to California.

Oh, My! How Summer Styles Intrigue Mama, Papa, Son And Sister, Too, This Year!

By GIL A. COWAN

HEY, SKINNY! Have you had a splash in the Patterson park pool yet this year? Every kid in town, as well as a lot of the old folks, ought to know there is a regular pond in Glendale where you can get a good sunburn these warm afternoons as well as disporting in a swimming suit. We see a lot of good suits for sale at the stores in Glendale and there is no reason why you shouldn't share in the sport of wriggling around like a fish unless you are bowlegged, knock kneed or otherwise "nigh ruint" as the little boy once said.

And Oh, Papa! Have you seen the beautiful new straw k-k-katies being displayed this year in the windows of the men's shops? Every haberdasher in town has something to intrigue you in the way of a sunshade that'll "knock 'em dead." Believe in me when I say the straws look good enough to eat this year. They are the sweet cookies!

How Cool They Look

Then for Sweet Mama! Have you one of the new summer dresses that adorn the wax models of our store windows this season? They are the dreams with all sorts of cunning designs here and there and just as frilly and chilly looking that no summer's sun would dare look 'em over more than once without hiding behind a high fog.

Sister, too, has her inning in the sporting togs. They are irresistible, even for the most ardent resister of feminine apparel. They are making 'em so graceful that even a motor trip to the mountains for the week end is sufficient excuse to get into the togs that the army made famous and the college girls have made notorious.

To be perfectly truthful, we tried on white shoes yesterday for the first time this season and chilblains are expected from the change. Yea, verily, this is Summer and you might as well admit, dress for it and enjoy it. Summer clothes are quite the style.

Hats That Fold Up

You will see in the shops here knitted frocks in pastel shades, the jacquettes being worn with skirts of plain model. Speaking of hats for milady you will find them this year specially designed for travelling and capable of folding into a box.

The fad for colored shoes to match the predominant color of one's gown suggests that other accessories might also match with smart effect, according to Glendale style experts, who are watching the trend of things.

For instance, if the gown is trimmed with green the hat and shoes may as well carry out the same color scheme. A pocketbook or vanity case, also, might repeat the motif for the classy dresser. Green and all the shades of red are most popular this season, especially among the bathing suits.

Even Egypt Contributes

The King Tut motif is found in bathing suits, which are very Egyptian in effect, if you please, reminding one of the crazy quilt the W. R. C. used to raffle at their annual dinner in the G. A. R. hall "somewhere back East." It was always won by some lonely Son of a Veteran, but that matters not. As for King Tut, he likely had no bathing suit.

This is a discussion of summer styles of 1923. Go to any of our Glendale stores and see the latest for yourself. We have been, and we have seen—and we're glad to have the opportunity of inviting you to do as we have done.

"Get next to the newest," be it bathing suit or bathrobe; pumps, sandals or just plain shoes; whipcord or khaki; willow weaves or pongees. You are sure to find something that will please you!

NEW SHOWHOUSE INSTALLS ORGAN

Van Nuys Factory Supplies $20,000 Instrument in Gateway Theatre

The Gateway theatre, located on San Fernando road, near Brand boulevard, is rapidly nearing completion. This new photoplay house bids fair to be one of the most beautiful, as well as one of the most unique, in all of Southern California, it is stated by Roy Miller.

A splendid pipe organ from the Robert Morton factory in Van Nuys is being installed, and when completed will represent an investment of $20,000. A capable organist has been engaged to preside over this instrument.

The seating capacity of the theatre will be 1000, and included in the seats will be several hundred big, roomy loges of special design. Another unique feature of the new theatre is the installation of a crystal glass screen, on which the pictures will be shown.

Nursery Provided

A huge ventilating plant will be installed that will keep the house cool and comfortable in the warmest weather, and the most modern of projection and electrical equipment is being installed.

Mothers can bring their little ones, for a nursery is being built where they can care for their youngsters and watch the show in comfort at the same time. The location of the house is an ideal one, also, for the motorist, for there is ample room in the immediate vicinity for the parking of cars.

The opening date will be announced in the near future and some unusual photoplays are promised by the management for this new theatre.

IRRIGATION DAM

Financed by the government, the largest irrigation dam in the world will be built in India.

NURSE INSTITUTE TO OPEN JULY 1

Students Assembling From All Over West for Glendale Session

The Nurses' institute conducted by the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital will not open until Sunday, July 1, announces Miss Kathryn L. Jensen, head nurse, who states that postponement was necessary by reason of the fact that many of the teachers they are depending upon for instructional work are in attendance this week at the convention of the American Medical association in San Francisco.

Others, according to Miss Jensen, wished to attend the conference of the health section of the National Educational council, also convened in San Francisco this week.

Matriculation for the Nurses' institute course at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, then, will take place Sunday, July 1, and the school will continue until Saturday, July 28.

Come from Canada

In addition to an enrollment from the western states, several students are reported on the way from the central states; and yesterday a delegation arrived from Resthaven, Can.

The institute will assemble nurses and students from practically all sanitariums and treatment rooms operated by the Seventh-day Adventist denomination west of the Mississippi river, for study and observation under a staff of a dozen or more capable teachers gathered from many points of the west and middlewest.

Dr. A. W. Truman, secretary of the medical department of the denomination, who is coming from Washington, D. C., to attend this institute, will be among the experienced teachers. His aim will be, with his colleagues, to give the workers additional inspiration, together with instruction, many of the courses being particularly designed to help nurses who feel the need for further knowledge before attempting active work.

List of Teachers

This will be the first nurses' institute ever held by the denomination on the Pacific coast and the teachers will include: Dr. A. W. Truman, Dr. Elsie Merritt, Dr. Belle Wood-Comstock, Miss Mattie Barber, R. N., Mrs. Alice Holeton, R. N., Mrs. Frank Cobban, R. N., Miss Edna Burney, R. N., Mrs. Daisy Harris, R. N., Miss Kathryn L. Jensen, R. N., Miss Veda Marsh, R. N., and Elder J. L. McElhaney.

In addition to these, local, White Memorial and Loma Linda physicians will also take part in the instructional program.

The curriculum will include Bible hygiene, ministry of healing, denominational health administration, child welfare and school nursing, class-room methods in teaching, educational physical culture, preventive medicine and personal hygiene, administration and organization of sanitariums and schools of nursing, selection and preparation of foods, and nursing technique and procedure.

Teach Health Principles

Every class will be conducted with the object of informing students how much knowledge they receive may be applied to our organized work, is the information received from Dr. Truman.

"Nurses will learn how best to give our health principles in connection with our educational system," he states, "through the home missionary and missionary volunteer activities, in our churches, in evangelistic efforts, at camp meetings and in all other activities in which skilled teachers of health principles are needed to give a well-balanced message to all classes of people."

USEFUL THOUGHT DUTY OF MIND

Dr. Fareed Urges Meditation And Discipline to Beautiful Things

"The Dynamics of Thought" was the subject of the lecture by Dr. Ameen U. Fareed Sunday morning at the Tuesday Afternoon club house before the congregation of the Church of Divine Realization.

"The mind is akin to a mine: the metal is there but must be developed before it can be used!" he exclaimed.

"Nothing is at a standstill. Just as a field left to itself with grow weeds, so a mind not cultivated must do something and become negative or allows thoughts to occupy it which bring no results. In order to accomplish something or reap a crop the mind must be cleared of the various forms of hindrances that have grown there.

"Why are there so few minds that are mines? Why so few, comparatively, who are accomplishing the worthwhile things in the world? Because the great majority of people have their minds full of useless or destructive thoughts, or just let thoughts pass through their minds.

"Conscious auto - suggestion faithfully practiced will help much," he said. "Take a positive affirmation like this: 'My thinking is clearer, my mind is keener, and my thoughts are better day by day.' Say it to yourself every morning for a month, trying to realize its meaning as you say it, and see if you do not notice a helpful change beginning to come in your ability to use your thoughts.

"Any power or faculty not exercised will deteriorate. The neglect to develop the mind is one of the greatest sins.

"Jesus found in Nature his fitting illustrations because he lived so close to Nature and was absolute master of his thoughts."

The following practice for mind culture was recommended by Dr. Fareed. "Read an inspiring selection, meditate on the content, then write it out in your own words. Discipline your mind to dwell on the beauties of God in nature. Center your interest on the beautiful and it will beget more beauties."

J. A. Coleman Opens Law Offices Here

John A. Coleman, an attorney with offices formerly in the Citizens' National Bank building, Los Angeles, has taken Suite 2 in the Central building, 111 East Broadway, and will hereaffer practice law in Glendale. He brings to this city with him his wife and five children, four boys and a girl. They probably will locate on West Colorado street.

For twenty years Mr. Coleman practiced law in Butte and other cities of Montana, where he represented a number of mining companies. He was associated with Senator T. J. Walsh and others.

Mr. Coleman first came to southern California a year ago, bringing with him one of his sons, who was in ill health. Attracted by the climate and progressiveness of this section, he decided to stay and brought on his family. In making Glendale their home, the Coleman family feel they have selected a community with a great present and a greater future.

New Eruption Threatening Observatory on South Side of Volcano

LONDON, June 27.—A violent new eruption broke out this morning on the south side of Mount Etna's main crater, threatening the observatory on that side of the volcano, according to a Central News despatch from Rome this afternoon.

Fears were felt in Rome that the observatory would be overwhelmed, the despatch added.

Professor Carrarab reported that the new flood of molten lava was advancing down the south slope of the mountain at the rate of one kilometer (six tenths of a mile) hourly.

John W. Cotton Has Exhibit of Etchings

Glendalians who have enjoyed exhibits of etchings and aquatints by John W. Cotton, until recently a Glendale resident, but now living in Eagle Rock, will be interested in the announcement of an exhibit of his work in Los Angeles.

The announcement states that it is an exhibition of Mr. Cotton's aquatints at the Jackson Art store at 829 West Seventh street. Many of the prints shown are very rare since plates have been destroyed and editions completed.

VAN NUYS SPUDS AWARDED BAIRD

Aviating Kiwanians Make Deal Bring Home Attendance Prize

A. L. Baird, who attended the Kiwanis booster meeting at Van Nuys Sunday afternoon in company with Dr. T. C. Young, Reeves Darling and A. L. Ferguson, all of whom went via the air, won the attendance prize.

It was a 100-pound sack of spuds, all of which were not to be considered fit for airplane freightage back to Glendale. So Mr. Baird made a deal with Fred Deal to bring them over in his car.

"I expect those potatoes will be sprouted by the time I get them," he confided. "If we had stuffed our pockets full and made several trips in the doctor's airplane we might have saved Mr. Deal the trouble."

Incidentally the Glendale visitors witnessed the crash of an airplane with an automobile, which wrecked both machines and injured several people. The crash was unavoidable because of the undeveloped landing field.

It was the purpose of the meeting Sunday to get Van Nuys to make a satisfactory flying field for numerous local aviators.

TUESDAY CLUB'S FINANCES GOOD

All Furnishings of New Building Paid; Only $50,000 Debt Now

"This is a year that God has richly blest," was the brief, but impressive preface given yesterday by Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president and chairman of finance of the Tuesday Afternoon club, to her wonderful report demonstrating that the club women have a just claim to recognition as shrewd business women.

The Tuesday Afternoon club women undertook a big project in building and furnishing a clubhouse, but Mrs. Campbell's detailed report showed that today the club's home stands with but a $50,000 debt on the building. As for the furnishing, Mrs. Campbell stated that every bit of furnishing in the entire building is paid for.

Receipted bills for furnishings were burned yesterday as a feature of the annual meeting.

Another outstanding item of Mrs. Campbell's report was that club officers have met all debts except the loan of $50,000 and it will not be necessary for the club to accept the loan of $10,000 offered by two women and eight men of Glendale.

Gives Figures

Mrs. Campbell's report showed that October 1922 there was $23,000 cash on hand; that $50,000 was loaned; that $10,000 was realized from 100 life members; that $3,460 was realized from initiation fees from 346 members; that the Ways and Means committee and Non-Section members led by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery had raised by benefits $5,300; making a total of $91,760.

For disbursements she reported a total of $93,417.06, which has been fully met by the $91,760 and the $2,312.87 in the general fund, leaving the club free from any debt except the $50,000 loan.

Supplementary to her report Mrs. Campbell stated that it is the aim of Mrs. Montgomery and the Non-Section women to bring their $5,300 up to $6,000 by July 1, 1923. She also stated that club memberships have poured in during the past few weeks and that the club now has over 1,000 members.

Reports Merit Praise

The report of Mrs. M. E. Plasterer reflected expert ability and brought her unanimous praise from club officers and members. During the year Mrs. Plasterer has kept two separate accounts, one of the general finances of the club, and one for building activities.

In reporting on the general finances, she stated that total receipts had been $2,889.55; disbursements, $576.68, leaving a balance of $2,312.87.

In the building fund, Mrs. Plasterer reported total receipts of $24,715.61; disbursements, $22,436.05; leaving a balance of $2,279.56.

Mrs. Campbell also gave a report as president, reciting events of the past year and giving in detail her activities as president.

TODAY—No Privacy for President; Must Always Make Speech, by George R. Holmes, Washington correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The telephone on the desk of the secretary to the President of the United States rings.

It is answered.

"Hello! This is Senator Hoozis speaking. We are dedicating a museum out in my town in about three weeks and we would like the president to be there. How about it?"

There is a wait while the president is consulted. Then:

"Yes, the president says he will come upon one condition—that he is NOT called on for a speech. He will go, but he absolutely will not speak, and if there's any intention of asking him to he will not go. That's final."

"Oh, that's all right," says Senator Hoozis; "we just want him there, and I promise you now he won't be called upon to speak. There'll be plenty of other speakers."

"All right; come down, and we will arrange the details. But remember, NO speaking."

"Absolutely NOT."

Change the name, date and occasion, and the foregoing is a fair example of the solemn contracts that are made almost weekly when the president is in Washington.

But the president speaks just the same—on every occasion. Recently Mr. Harding confided to friends that he did not believe it possible for the Presirent of the United States to appear in public without making a speech.

President Harding likes to attend "events." But he likes to attend as a spectator, as an ordinary guest, rather than as the "prize exhibit at the county fair" and as the cynosure of all eyes. It is very seldom, however—in fact, almost never — that he is permitted to go anywhere in the role of spectator or ordinary guest.

The solemn contracts and obligations that enter into nearly every side trip that the president makes around the capital and to nearby points are invariably broken, and almost before he realizes what is happening Mr. Harding will hear the customary:

"And now, ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States."

How hard Mr. Harding works to escape speech-making and how futile all his efforts are was illustrated a few days ago, when he went to Delaware to be initiated into the Tall Cedars of Lebanon, a Masonic organization. It was to be a quiet trip, with the customary no speech-making.

To a number of newspaper correspondents who were uncertain about whether to accompany him or not the president spoke as a fellow newspaperman:

"There will be no speeches," he said, "and no story. So you all might as well remain in Washington, so far as news is concerned. There will be absolutely no speeches. That's as final, conclusive and definite as anything can be. I really mean it this time."

He went to Delaware.

He made exactly ten speeches in as many hours.

They ranged in subject all the way from a short discourse on international relations to the need of Americanization of aliens.

Great outpourings of people met him at every stop and in many places where no stops were scheduled. Thousands of people who came and stood by the roadside for hours to get a glimpse of the motor caravan had never seen a president of the United States much less heard one speak. To many of them it was the high point of their quiet lives.

Children by the hundred turned out, lining the roadways in the rural districts and in the quiet villages of rural Delaware. And the Hardings, both the president and his wife, are particularly susceptible to the appeal of children. They have none of their own.

At the president's first meeting with newspaper men, after his return from Delaware, he opened the conference with a shake of his head.

"I apologize humbly," he said, "for a gross misstatement of fact at our last meeting."

That was all.

Up in far-off Alaska, where "the mighty-mouthed hollows are plumb full of hush to the brim," it may be—there is just a bare chance—that the president may be able to travel around and see things and make no speeches.

But those familiar with presidential trips are betting that "the bighorns asleep on the hill" will awake and demand a presidential utterance when they learn of Mr. Harding's presence in their midst.

How hard Mr. Harding works to escape speech-making and how futile all his efforts are was il-

BLLL AND HIS BRAKES

Bill was one of those dashing operators. He got along well enough with his car with one exception—he couldn't keep brake linings in her. In burning up his yearly 15,000 miles of road he also burned up two or three sets of good Blankbestos linings. He drove up at the service station one day with: "These blamed foot brakes gave me a great bawling out for nearly winging the car in front of me. What did you put on the bands, blotting paper? Why can't I get decent service from you people?" "If you really want to know what ails your brakes and won't get sore, I'll tell you a few things," responded Ed, the trouble man, who was at the door. "Look at the way you came into this place—and I suppose you do the same everywhere else. You keep her at about thirty until you are right in the yard and then stand up on the brake pedal. Time and again I've seen where you've slid your tires for thirty feet. Remember the day we were adjusting your carburetor on Tower Hill how you coasted down? You held the clutch out and when we got to the bottom you smelled smoke. Well, that was the oil burning out of your brake bands. The only thing that will ever stand up with you is a chilled-iron brake shoe like the freight cars have. Let me give you a few tips. When you are going to stop, let up on the gas, say a hundred feet or so before you get to your stopping point, and don't push out your clutch till you get almost there. You'll coast right up to where you belong, with the engine holding back, and will need just a touch on the brake to stop her. When you come to coast down a "jumping-off place" like Tower Hill, just slip her into second—or first if you need to—keep your clutch in, shut the gas way off and let the engine do most of the holding back. No, it won't hurt your engine the least bit, and if you use a little extra gas it will only help to found a library somewhere." Although Bill did not exactly relish these personal remarks, he is a good sport and not only did not get sore but took the little sermon to heart. Bad driving habits are hard to break and he did not reform at once, but Ed can tell you that his brake bands have not been off so often lately and that Blankbestos people have recently lost the sale of several feet of their oil-water and wearproof product.

DIRECT OPERATION OF LIGHTS

J. F. W. writes: Please give us directions for running lights direct from the generator without causing it to be burned out. We have an old, magneto equipped car, for which we do not wish to buy a battery, but want to utilize its generator for lighting.

Answer: Assuming that your generator has third-brush regulation, the best way we know of is to keep the full lamp equipment permanently connected to it and to extinguish them by stopping the excitation of the generator. To accomplish this, there should be cut into the generator circuit a switch, which when opened will open the field winding and thus "kill the generator." By mounting this switch on the cowl board you can put the lights on and off with it and there will be no danger of burning out the generator fields. Perhaps you can utilize your present light switch as the field switch, connecting all lamps permanently in circuit with the generator. If lamps burn too brightly at some speeds, you may have to use larger bulbs, wire in an additional lamp or do something that will increase the generator load and thus reduce the bulb voltage.

NOISY TRANSMISSION

C. W. P. writes: Ever since reclutch there has been a noise in the transmission that varies in strength at different speeds. The mechanic who had disassembled the transmission can find nothing wroni. When the car is run with the rear wheels jacked up this noise is not heard. What can you suggest?

Answer: Are you sure that the noise is in the transmission? Such sounds are rather difficult to locate exactly. Are you positive there is nothing wrong about the new thrust-bearing and that no adjustment was disturbed when it was put in? The fact that the noise developed right after you installed the bearing may be significant. When you run the car jacked up try putting on the foot brakes momentarily, thus imposing a load on the entire transmission line, and see if this does not bring out the noise. There may be end-play in one of the transmission shafts, which your mechanic did not discover and which may cause noise at certain speeds

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY SHAVES A PIG

One day Curly Twistytail, the little boy pig, came nosing his way over to Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. And, as he grunted along, putting his funny little rubbery nose down in the clean dirt to look for good things to eat, Curly sang this song:

"Barber, barber, shave a pig,
How many hairs will make a wig?
Four and twenty—that's enough!
Give the barber a pinch of snuff."

"Why are you singing that song, Floppy?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who, just then, hopped out on the steps to go adventuring. "Have you a pinch of snuff for any barber who shaves a pig?" asked the old rabbit gentleman.

"No, Uncle Wiggily," answered Floppy, "I haven't any snuff. But I am looking for a barber to shave a pig, and I came to see if you would do it."

"Do what—take snuff or shave a pig?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Shave a pig," answered Floppy. "You see, Uncle Wiggily, my father has been sick," went on Floppy, looking just a bit sad. "He is better now, but he can't shave himself and he can't go to the barber's. So this morning, when he saw how long his whiskers were growing, as he looked in the glass, he said to my mother:

"'Oh, I wish I could be shaved,' and my mother said, 'Well, why don't you ask Uncle Wiggily to shave you?' So that's why I came, Uncle Wiggily, to ask you to shave a pig, went on Floppy, trying to whistle through his nose, but not doing it very well, as his nose had some sand on it.

"Of course I'll come and shave your pig daddy," offered Uncle Wiggily kindly. "I'll go in and get my razor. I'll come to your house and make a lot of soapy, suddsy lather and scrape off your father's whiskers."

"Thank you," grunted Floppy. "Then I'll run along to school." And away he hurried to the place where the Lady Mouse Teacher taught school in the mossy green, hollow stump.

When Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy saw Uncle Wiggily taking his razor, soap and brushes from the bath room, the muskrat lady asked:

"What adventure are you going to have now?"

"I am going to shave a pig," answered the bunny.

"Don't be silly!" spoke Nurse Jane, sort of provoked-like.

"Oh, but really I am going to shave Mr. Twistytail," said Uncle Wiggily, and he told Nurse Jane about it.

"You are very kind," the muskrat lady remarked, and soon Uncle Wiggily hopped over to Mr. Twistytail's house and began shaving the pig gentleman. It was a warm day and Mr. Twistytail sat near an open window, while Uncle Wiggily spread the soapy lather on the pig's face and took off his long whiskers.

Mr. Twistytail had such a heavy beard that the bunny gentleman made the soap lather extra strong and foamy, so that the cup which held the brush was quite filled with white foam as it sat on the window sill.

Now, as it happened, next door to Mr. Twistytail lived another family of pigs, with two little boys named Grunter and Sqealer. And as Grunter and Squealer were playing in the yard they looked over toward Mr. Twistytail's house.

'Barber, barber, shave a pig."

"Oh, I see a big bowl of sweet whipped cream on the window sill!" cried Grunter.

"Let's go up on our tiptoes and take it—no one will see us," spoke Squealer. "I love whipped cream; don't you?"

"Indeed I do!" answered Grunter, smacking his lips, though not very politely, I must say. Then the two little piggie boys went softly up to the window, and when Uncle Wiggily, with his back toward them, was washing the lather off Mr. Twistytail's face, Grunter and Squealer reached up on the sill and lifted off the mug full of soap lather.

They thought it was whipped cream, such as is put on cakes. But when they had taken each a large mouthful —oh—then——

"Wowzie! What a funny taste!" cried Grunter.

"It isn't cream at all! It's shaving soap!" cried Squealer. "Oh, what a terrible mistake we made!" And away they ran to wash their mouths out with clean water. Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Twistytail couldn't help laughing, and soon after that the pig gentleman was all better. And if the automobile doesn't turn upside down and try to shake off its tires, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the funny bird.

BILLY WHISKERS

by FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

A stylishly dressed lady holding a pink parasol over her head rounded the corner of the hotel, followed by a large, florid Englishman with a monocle in one eye and his straw hat fastened to a button in his coat by a narrow, black ribbon. Following them was a small, dark man in white duck, with lawn tennis shoes and he still carried the racket in his hand.

When they first turned the corner of the hotel, they did not see the two goats who were standing close to the wall still as mice. But horror of horrors the old goat gave a sneeze! The lady turned, saw the two goats, threw up her hands in terror and screamed and away sailed her parasol over the railing. She never noticed it, but grabbed her husband's arm knocking off his hat, and the monocle out of his eye at the same time. Then catching up her dress in both hands, she fled along the veranda and disappeared down the steps.

Not having seen the goats, the two men thought she had suddenly gone crazy, and rushed after her, leaving the two goats undisturbed.

While they were chuckling, a man with a pail of water and a mop suddenly stepped out on the veranda through a window. The goats were as much surprised to see him as he was to see them, but he regained his composure in a second and took after them with his mop, first throwing the contents of his pail over them. But they do not mind a little water, it being clean and the day warm. In fact, they enjoyed it, but the threatening mop was not pleasant, so they decided to run off the veranda instead of fighting.

As they ran down stairs, they met three or four men whom the proprietor of the hotel had sent, coming up to drive them off.

Without stopping, Billy butted into the first one and as the others were in line behind him, he knocked over the man directly behind him, as that man knocked over the one behind him and so it went, until they all were sprawling on the steps. Billy and the old goat ran over them and disappeared down the hill before they could right themselves and give chase.

Tomorrow you'll hear what Stubby and Button were doing while Billy was having his adventure.

TIMELY VIEWS & WORLD TOPICS

"DECIDED MOVEMENT TOWARD RELIGIOUS CONCEPTIONS OF UNIVERSE IS ON," SAYS MUSEUM HEAD

A remarkable movement of leaders of science in the direction of religion has taken place since the war, and especially in the last two years, according to Professor Henry Fairfield Osborn, president of the American Museum of Natural History.

H. F. OSBORN

The public declaration signed by ten leading men of science, including himself, and by churchmen, professional men and men of affairs a few days ago was a development of this movement. That is the view of Dr. Osborn, whose standing in Europe and America makes him probably the best qualifed man to speak for the scientific men of this country.

"In America, Great Britain and in France there has been a decided movement among scientific men," said Dr. Osborn, "toward religious conceptons of the universe and toward recognition of the spiritual and moral value of life."

Controversies Have Died

The effect of the fierce controversies of the time of Darwin and Huxley have died completely away, except for an attempt to revive them in this country. With this peace which have prevailed until very lately, the gradual movement of science and religion was toward a concordat.

"I have seen no reference by fundamentalists," said Dr. Osborn, "to this modern movement among scientific men who went back to conceptions as they existed fifty years ago before the evolution theory had been demonstrated, while it was still a good working hypothesis.

"There is no historical antagonism between evolution and religion. That antagonism is relatively a modern invention. As far as the Roman Catholic church is concerned, St. Augustine adopted the ideas of evolution which prevailed among the Greeks.

"Now, the latest step in this movement of scientific men toward religious conceptions is the joint declaration that appeared recently. This was signed by a group of scientific leaders, a group of religious leaders and a group of professional men and men of affairs.

"I regard that statement as a culminaton of the changing thoug

DINNER STORIES

A Scottish farmer, being elected a school manager, visited the village school and tested the intelligence of the class by this question: "Now, boys, can any of you tell me what naething is?"

After a moment's silence a small boy in a back seat rose and replied: "It's what ye gied me the other day for holding your horse."—Judge.

culmination of a changing thought on the part of the leading scientific men of the world, which was first strongly manifest after the war in the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

Orthodox Christians Contribute

Dr. Osborn emphasized the fact that much of the knowledge of the evolution of man had been contributed by the researches of devout and orthodox Christians. He mentioned Abbe Breuil and clericals among those who had shown most about the development of prehistoric man.

"The most advanced and learned Roman Catholic opinion on the subject," Dr. Osborn said, "is represented by a book published by one of the most conservative universities in the world, the University of Louvain. Practically all of the learned Roman Catholics in Europe have accepted evolution in some form, and I believe his recent publication of which I speak, the work of Canon Dorlodot, on 'Darwinism and Catholic Thought,' is one of the ablest expressions on the subject ever put forward.

"The truth is that the time of warfare between religion and science has passed by. The quarrel cannot be revived among intelligent men."

The lady was attired in the height of fashion, and as she was strutting through the village, contempt for her lofty surroundings was written on every line—and there were many—of her face, says Judge. Suddenly she caught sight of a small boy, and she stiffened with anger. The boy was a ragamuffin, and he was carrying a bird's nest full of eggs.

"You're a very bad boy!" she snapped without hesitation. "A very bad boy! How could you rob the nest?" she continued. "No doubt the poor mother bird is still grieving over her loss."

"Not she, mum!" came the sharp reply. "She's part of your hat!" Then the lady proceeded rather more quickly on her way.

A bather got out beyond her depth, and her screams soon brought to the rescue the boatman whose business it was to save anyone in difficulties. A few strokes carried him to the spot and he reached out a muscular arm to grip the poor girl, who was just about to sink. At this moment her frantic struggles dislodged her bathing cap, which soon floated away, carrying with it, what was more precious, her wig.

"Oh, save my hair!" she cried. "Save my hair!"

"Madam," replied the gallant rescuer, hauling her into the boat, "I am only a life-saver, not a hair restorer."—Princeton Tiger.

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

Old Flood was a miser. Except for his dog he was without friends, and because of the dog he was not molested. Jack, the dog, a gigantic bull, growled at the approach of a stranger and stuck by his master's side. What they had they had together.

When Old Flood fell ill he counted his money again and called the dog to his side.

"They will move in here, Jack," he said; "all of them. Everyone who can cook up a claim on me will be here looking for the money. Perhaps they think it is a lot. We've got to fool them."

Then he took the heavy collar off the dog's neck, unscrewed one of the brass studs and found he could separate the two layers of leather. Inside he placed paper money folded tightly and some gold pieces, $400 in all. When the collar was repaired he placed it on the dog's neck.

"All the time they are looking around, Jack, you will have the secret, you and I." And Old Flood died with a smile on his face.

* * * * *

Phineas Topper was lank and careless, a tramp of the sort who take to the roads instead of the railroad tracks. There may have been something appealing in his whistle, or else the heart of a lone dog recognized a friend, for when Phineas passed the Flood place Jack trotted out and followed. Phineas edged away, casting about for a convenient tree, but Jack wagged his tail and approached humbly.

"Here's a go," said Phineas, "a bull-dog offering to be my pal. I have seen many of your relatives, old top, but most times from a safe elevation or out of the corner of my eye."

The two took the road together, the dog bringing an odd complication into the life of the tramp. He found, for instance, it was not so easy to approach a door to ask for food with this ferocious creature behind him, or was it so easy to find a place to sleep. The dog had a way of chasing cats and chickens which was forever getting his master into trouble.

"I do notice, however, Phineas conceded, "that some of these town marshals act more respectful like."

Then the dog undertook to change the morals of its owner. There came a night when the tramp fell for temptation and planned to enter a house to take what food and money he could find. "It will be my first crack at burglary," he told the dog, "but I need the money. Dog, you don't know how much I need it."

Phineas sneaked into the gate of a house set well back from the street. When he disappeared in the shadow of the dwelling and approached the window, the dog set up a howl. There was no burglary that night.

"Look here," Phineas took the dog to task. "If we don't get some money we starve. I am not the young fellow I was once, and it is time I'm getting a start in life. If you are going to interrupt me at my work we part company."

The dog whined and made a pitiful attempt to wag his tail. "And now," said his master, "you go and get sick on me. Well, it serves you right. Here is where we two part."

Phinets swung his stick on his shoulder and walked away, leaving the dog in the grass under a tree. The man did not look back, for he knew the animal's appealing eyes were fixed on him. For a quarter of a mile he walked, debating with hmself. That dog would never desert him. Why, he was the first real friend he had had in years! Go off and leave him to die? Phineas turned about and returned to the dog.

For two days they camped under the trees, the tramp trying to make the last hours of his friend more comfortable. Then the dog died, and Phineas Topper, who had laughed at the world, cried like a boy.

"I'll take this collar to remember you by," he said to the dog, who would never hear him again. "Leastwise I'll take it and maybe sell the old brass. You were a pretty good pal, old top."

In the next town Phineas Topper sold the money-laden collar for 60 cents and went on his way along the dusty road.

Tomorrow—A Handy Secret.

FOR THE COTTON CREPES

The fancy cotton crepes rise to a crescendo of color for the season's latest frocks, and this model may be carried out in plain or figured effects. The front of the waist is slashed down either side of the center and a vestee of organdy added. Fancy braid, lace or ribbon may be used to outline the collar, flowing sleeves and gathered side panels. Buttons are also employed with chic results. Medium size requires four and one-half yards thirty-six-inch material.

AN EMPIRE KIMONO

Fashion goes to the Orient for this simple kimono of crepe satin. It may, however, be duplicated in many other materials. The closing is at the center-front, the V-shaped neck being finished with a two-piece collar. Attached to the lower edge of the waist is a three-piece skirt trimmed with pockets of fanciful shape. Picoting or hemstitching, embroidery or contrasting material may be added as decorative tones, if desired.

MANICURE HELPS

A young girl with a very small allowance of spending money has asked me what she will need in the way of manicure articles and how much they will cost. As she has so little to spend, I've suggested that she put all her money into quality of material, rather than beauty, and to keep her set in a flat box in her dressing table drawer, where it won't show.

The most important thing to buy is a long, flexible steel file. She cannot find a really good one under 75 cents, perhaps even $1. A dollar seems a lot for one not very pretty toilet implement, but it will last many years. This is for shaping the nails; to clean them, a cheap, pointed file will do—10 cents or less. For 5 cents she can get a packet of orange wood sticks in dfiferent sizes for cleaning or for pushing back the cuticle. For 10 cents, several packets of emery boards, for smoothing the nails after they have been filed and shaped.

Next come the manicure scissors. Before the war I bought a wonderful pair for 35 cents. I still have them. But today I could not find a similar quality under $1.50. The buffer is better if large and a little concave, such a one would cost 75 cents, or perhaps 50 cents in wood. But a little 10 cent one can be made to do. So, for between $2 and $3 you can own serviceable, if not sightly, manicure implements. I'm not counting in polishing powders (a 10 cent box or cake will last a year), nor creams, for cold creams will do as well as special cuticle creams. Lemon juice is the best and the cheapest bleach, and cuticle removers are not necessary, if the finger tips are soaked in warm, soapy water before manicuring.

S. B. H.—The excessive growth of beard at 17 need give no concern. Such trouble is only temporary, and the necessity for daily shaving will soon just become one of your habits.

Jay—You should never keep the hair oiled. Oil attracts dirt and it also clogs the hair shafts. Use the hot oil on scalp the night before shampooing, or, if the hair is too dry, massage a trifle into the scalp at other times. Never let the oil get through the hair, however, unless it is to be washed in a short time. I will be glad to mail you a formula for an excellent hair tonic on receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope.

Marching with the Legion

When Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, visits the various cities on his national speaking tour for the legion, his entertainment program is under the supervision of local legionnaires. Visiting Santa Fe, N. M., recently, Commander Owsley was conducted to the famous "Burro Alley," where he made the acquaintance of the determined little beast of burden of the southwest.

Alvin Owsley and burro

That the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt be declared a national holiday is the sentiment of a resolution adopted recently by Masonic post of the American Legion in Chicago.

Although the states of Rhode Island and Delaware are the smallest in area, they lead all other states in the union in increase over their quotas of contributions to the American Legion's fund to provide for the permanent annual decoration of overseas graves. Among the recent contributors are Maude Radford Warren, novelist, and Dwight F. Davis, assistant secretary of war.

Former Congressman Burton E. Sweet of Waverly, Ia., and Daniel J. Callahan of Washington, D. C., have accepted appointment to serve as advisory members of the national rehabilitation committee of the American Legion. Mr. Sweet served four terms in congress and was a sincere champion of veterans' legislation in that body. Mr. Callahan is treasurer of the Knights of Columbus.

More than fifty disabled veterans of the world war have taken advantage of Henry Ford's recent offer of free treatment in the Ford hospital in Detroit, made following an appeal from Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion.

An enthusiastic reception from their comrades of the British Legion is reported in word received from Hanford MacNider and Milton J. Foreman, past national commanders of the American Legion, who represented that organization at the recent convention of the British veterans.

Hollandaise Sauce for Fresh Baked Cod—Divide one-half cup of butter into three pieces. Put one of these pieces into the top of your double boiler with the slightly beaten yolks of two eggs and one tablespoon of lemon juice; stir this mixture as it cooks, using a wire whisk, and when the butter is melted, add the second and then the third piece of butter. When the last piece is melted, stir in one-third cup of boiling water, cook one minute longer, and remove from fire to cool. Season with one-third teaspoon of salt and a pinch of cayenne pepper.

Eggs Tokoneke—This is a delicious way to serve eggs for either lunch or for supper. Butter small, individual baking dishes and sprinkle bread crumbs in the bottom to the depth of one-half inch; on top of these crumbs sprinkle either grated or finely chopped mild cheese (only just enough to cover the crumbs) then break an egg into each little dish, not stirring this egg in. Now sprinkle more of the cheese on top of the egg, add a top layer of crumbs, dot with bits of butter, and pour in enough sweet milk to barely cover the contents of the dish. Slip the dish into a hot oven to bake till well cooked through—about ten minutes. Serve hot.

Noroton Filling for Layer Cake (also an icing). Mix together one cup of sugar, a pinch of salt and one heaping tablespoon of cornstarch; turn this mixture into a saucepan containing one cup of boiling water and let cook till thick, stirring constantly. Then add butter size of a walnut, the juice of one lemon, and two whole bananas finely sliced; stir vigorously so that the banana slices break up into small bits. Remove from fire, after cooking for a few minutes, and add at once the stiffy whipped whites of two eggs. Spread between two cake layers and on top the cake.

Hot Cheese Sandwiches—Chip mild American cheese into the upper part of your double boiler and let steam over boiling water till melted. Pour it at once onto buttered slices of bread and press together to form a sandwich. Serve while the cheese is hot. Wholewheat bread makes a more nourishing sandwich than white bread. Here is another excellent kind:

Hot Egg Sandwich—Fry an egg and lay it, while hot, on a buttered slice of bread; lay thin slices of Bermuda onion (raw) on top of the egg and cover with another buttered slice of bread. Serve while the egg is hot.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

Food Idiosyncrasies

Every once in a while you hear of some person who cannot take eggs, or some other food which to the ordinary person is perfectly harmless, without having a marked reaction in the skin or the mucous membrane of the nose or lungs, or the gastro-intestinal tract.

When certain foods (or drugs) affect people in this way we say those people have an idiosyncrasy for that food (or drug). Other terms that are used are anaphylaxis or sensitization, or food allergy.

It has been found that this unusual and poisonous action is due to the protein in the food. The system in some manner has been sensitized to certain proteins. Sometimes these sensitizations seem to be an inherited characteristic, and so will run in families. Other times the sensitization is brought about by some previous disorder which has crippled the absorptive membrane of the gastro-intestinal tract, and because it is not in good working order the proteins are absorbed before they are digested and ready for their absorption; they then act as a foreign substance in the blood and cause poisonous effects, varying in intensity.

In many cases of eczema it has been found that there is this hyper-sensitiveness to certain proteins, and this is the primary cause of these forms of eczema. The scratching and external irritation and the infection which is very liable to take place on non-resistant tissues helps keep up the condition.

Sometimes people are sensitized to proteins which are flying in the air, such as certain grass and flower pollens, or the dandruff from the skin of animals, especially horses and dogs and rabbits, and this sensitization will be shown in hay fever or certain forms of asthma. Felt hats often contain rabbit fur, and if the person is susceptible to rabbit fur the hat will cause asthma. This has been proved.

There are many people who stop eating necessary foods because at some time when that food has been immoderately indulged in they have had distress. There are others who are over-anxious and afraid to eat many proper foods because they have read perfectly good foods, unless combined properly, will explode in the stomach, and so forth. They are actually afraid to eat for fear of eating wrong combinations! Eventually these people suffer from starvation acidosis and there is a vicious circle, and they really do suffer. They must remember such nonsense is false.

These fancied idiosyncrasies must not be confused with the true idiosyncrasies. Foods most apt to cause the true idiosyncrasies are fish, strawberries, pork, eggs, milk, and certain cereals, especially oatmeal and buckwheat. If there is the true idiosyncrasy, it will be manifested in the manner I have stated. Many times a person who is sensitized to these foods will find that their systems will accustom themselves to such foods if they will take them in very small amounts and gradually increase the quantity.

Laboratories are now giving protein tests so that a person who is hypersensitive to some protein, and does not know which it is, can be tested to find out. The skin is scraped off a tiny spot on the arm or leg and the purified protein to be tested is rubbed upon that spot. If the system is hyper-sensitive to the protein a little inflammation will show very soon. If it is not sensitized, there is comparatively no reaction.

Side Talks

by Ruth Cameron

RUSTY NEEDLES AND DISTANT FUTURES

America is a prodigal country.

Doubtless it is inevitable that she should breed prodigal people.

In my needle case the other day I found some rusty needles. What to do with rusty or broken needles and their blood relatives, old razor blades (no, I would not be deliberately guilty of such a ghastly pun), is one of the eternal problems. I fancy most housewives sidestep it by putting such articles in a box and sticking the box on a high shelf to be taken down at house-cleaning time, looked at and put back.

So, running true to form, I said to the inhabitant of my kitchen, "I'd like to throw these away, but I don't know just where to throw them."

"Dinna throw them away at all," said she. "Just put them on a stone and rub your foot back and forth over them and they'll be as shining as ever."

They Just Buy New Ones

And then she added: "Folks don't do those things in this country, though. They just buy new ones."

Surely a true indictment—if I do say so against whom it was made.

Many Americans don't know what thrift means. They know what economy means. It means going without things. But in the matter of thrift—which means making the most of what you have, making things last by proper use, making every cent count—there are very few of us who do not have to take off our hats to people brought up in the economic pressure of Old World conditions.

Two Inheritances

Here is another clever summing up of a typical American attitude. A man whose business is the understanding of financial conditions said to me in regard to America's attitude toward money: "If an American inherits some money he says: 'I have inherited $2000,' or whatever the amount is. If a Frenchman inherits the same amount of money he says: 'I have inherited 500 francs,' or whatever the interest on that amount is. That is, the American looks upon the principal as something to use, the Frenchman regards it as capital to be kept sacred."

America is a prodigal country.

Perhaps it is inevitable that she should breed a prodigal people.

Facing the Future

But she will not always be so prodigal. It is estimated that in the year 2100 there will be about one hundred and ninety-seven million people in the United States. And that will be practically the saturation point. Moreover, at the prodigal rate at which we are using up our oil, and our forests, and our coal, we shall have used up long before that the natural resources that make life on this side of the water the comparatively easy thing it has been. That all means that American people will have to develop thrift.

The more we teach the principles of thrift to our children, the easier we are going to make the transition that they or their grandchildren may have to make.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am only sixteen years of age and a high school girl. I am going with a man who is thirty-three years of age. My folks feel that he is much too old for me, but I don't feel that way, as he seems so extremely young, in fact as much so as I do.

I am considered very good-looking and am very popular with both girls and boys, but this man loves me passionately and wants me to quit school and get married to him. I am a freshman, but if I wait until I am just through and marry then, what use will my education be to me?

Shall I go ahead with my school and boy and girl chums or settle down with this man? I am quite sure I love him. G. T.

It would be nothing short of tragedy for you to leave school and marry a man seventeen years older than you are. In a short time you would find your interest in life quite different, and you would be perfectly miserable in your longing for youth to understand you. An education is a very important thing, whether you use it in business or in married life. Let me assure you that your husband and your children would have more respect for you and you would have broader understanding of them with an education. Don't be a silly little girl. Give yourself more time to decide so important a matter as marriage.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl eighteen years of age. I am considered very pretty, but I am too stout. I weigh 180 pounds. Do you know of any means by which I can reduce my flesh? It certainly can't be the food I eat, because I eat the same amount and kind the thin people do. How much am I supposed to weigh? Any information you can give will be thankfully accepted.

THANK YOU.

It certainly is the amount of food you eat that makes you fat. Naturally some people are thin and others are stout and therefore the thin people find it possible to eat far more than stout people. The kind and amount of food eaten is the cause of surplus flesh.

There are good books on the subject of reducing, and if you get one and follow the advice you will be able to lose a pound or two a week until you have reached the weight you want. Buy a book on dieting, with a key to the calories. The key to the calories is most important, because that enables you to decide how fattening the different kinds of food are and how to balance your meals. With the system of calories you will find it possible to eat any kind of food, but you will learn to avoid overeating of the things you do not really want.

The amount you should weigh depends on your height. The diet book you buy will tell you how to figure your correct weight.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is it right for a girl of sixteen to write friendly letters?

Is a girl of sixteen old enough to go to a show nights with boys?

Do you think rouge hurts one's face if used at the age of fifteen or sixteen? MAYFLOWER.

If you write and receive letters you would be willing to have your mother read, it is all right.

A girl of sixteen is a little young to go to shows nights with boys.

Rouge dries and coarsens the skin. Personally I think it is deplorable to see a young girl spoil her natural beauty by daubing on a color which deceives no one.

Glendale Men Head New Oil Corporation

S. H. Malarkey, H. A. Malarkey and J. B. Swinburne of Glendale have organized the Black Rock Petroleum company, incorporated under the laws of Delaware, to drill and operate for oil and gas on the government permit of the 2560 acres of land in the San Juan county of New Mexico.

This land is said to be on a well-defined structure and geologists assert the Black Rock land is a continuation of those on which the Midwest Refining company of Wyoming brought in a 60½ gravity well.

S. H. Malarkey is president of the new corporation for which Evans & Pearce are officials. H. A. Malarkey is an experienced driller while other officers have been associated in the oil business, it is stated by Mr. Malarkey.

GARDEN OF MOON CHANGES OWNERS

Mrs. C. T. Smith of Glendale Bids Relatives Adieu For European Tour

"The Garden of the Moon," Tujunga's popular out-door dance pavilion and picnic grounds, has again changed hands. W. M. Allardice, who recently bought the half interest of his partner, Richard J. Smith, has sold the place to W. W. Wilcox, who is experienced in the amusement business. The outdoor swimming pool was opened for the season Sunday, and other features are planned.

Mr. McKeever of the Union Oil company of California and wife and two small children have taken a cottage at Summit Avenue and Stevens Way for the summer. Mr. McKeever is connected with the main offices of the company at Los Angeles. Although they arrived 'above the fog' just at an inopportune time when the Verdugo Hills were enjoying 'some unusual weather,' they have found Tujunga a pleasant little community.

Visiting in Tujunga

Louise B. Marlott, formerly cashier of the delivery department of the Union Oil company of California and treasurer of Los Amigos club of Los Angeles, but now with the Union Mortgage and Investment company, and John Clark, a prominent member of the Los Amigos club, were visitors at the Casa de los Amigos, Tujunga, Sunday.

Mrs. C. T. Smith of 809 South Verdugo Road, Glendale, paid a farewell visit to F. A. Graham and his mother Monday, accompanied by her sister and husband and Mrs. Blodgett.

Mrs. Smith who has been a resident of Glendale for many years, leaves Friday morning, June 29, at 11:15 with a party of thirty-one, for New York, via Texas and Chicago, where they will take passage on the "City of Paris" for Europe.

A private car will take the party overland. All but Mrs. Smith are Hollywood people. Mrs. Smith will be accompanied by Esther Lundstrom, a former Glendale girl who has yielded to the lure of the Cinema City since graduating from Glendale schools.

The first stop after leaving New York will be Paris, the dream city of every romancer. From there the trip will include the points of interest in all the principal countries of Europe. Mrs. Smith expects to visit her girlhood home in Denmark and is looking forward to this part of the trip eagerly.

The party will return some time the latter part of October, the entire tour covering nearly four months.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert A. Wood of 820 South Verdugo Road, Glendale, recently visited friends in Tujunga and inspected their property in the Hillhaven tract. Mr. Wood plans to build a vacation cabin on his hill site.

LA CRESCENTA

WIND FANS FIRE IN RUBBISH PILE

Smouldering Blaze Leaps to Life, Causing Heavy Damage to Lumber

Fire Chief Young had a busy morning yesterday, as a resident on Hermosa avenue had gone off to work leaving a rubbish fire, as he thought, extinct. However the wind fanned a spark into flame which blazed through a patch of dried grass and attacked a lumber pile which was a total loss. Added to this, the unfortunate man is under fine for leaving a fire that was not out. This should be a warning to all people who are not too careful in this dry country

A write-up appeared last week in The Literary Digest on the inventive ability of one of La Crescenta's residents, the gentleman in question being Harry Peters of Oxford, England. The article was on inventions regarding planes and turbine engines and stated Mr. Peters had not only put one of his machines into a plane, but had flown a great deal in the machine. Mr. Peters, who brought his wife here for her health, owns a beautiful little home on Brown avenue and has designed some very artistic homes here, which have recently been completed.

Mr. Peters also sold one of his small home designs to the Security Housing & Finance company of Los Angeles lately.

Firecrackers Banned

All storekeepers handling firecrackers have received warning regarding the sale of explosive crackers. There is a stiff fine for any storekeeper selling them to children, or in fact anyone. This is on account of the fire menace.

The real estate firm of Talmadge & Peterson has been dissolved. Mr. Talmadge sold out to his partner who will continue with the business single-handed.

William Singleton has returned from his two weeks' trip to Chicago and other eastern points. Like every one else who goes east and returns he is glad to get back. The weather in the east was insufferably hot, so that Mr. Singleton returned earlier than he intended.

Mrs. George Smith of Honolulu avenue has sold her home here and will live in Los Angeles.

Vacation Trips

Mrs. Mark Collins and Mrs. Carsons are enjoying a trip to the Yosemite and Mark Collins will go east the latter part of this week. A. Brown is also planning an eastern trip.

Mr. Currie, late owner of the local pharmacy, is running around in a new sedan.

Improve Street Lights
Doctors and Prohibition
Talking for Their Pay
Harding Finds Good Crop

By Gil A. Cowan

BETTER lights for the business district of Glendale is one of the big needs which the merchants and officials should consider. The boulevard lighting system installed here ten years ago was quite adequate for the business and residential districts so served, but with the growth of the city something new and more impressive is absolutely necessary.

Three, four and five-story buildings here are making a lane out of the spacious Brand boulevard. Soon Broadway will have its taller structures and the present lamp standards should be relegated to residential streets such as Central avenue. And by the time they are worn out on Central or Glendale avenues those thoroughfares will be sufficiently commercialized to command something better.

The City Council also should consider the advisability of allowing all of the boulevard lights on Brand and Broadway to burn until midnight. The very idea of turning them off at 10 o'clock gives the person passing through Glendale from Hollywood to Pasadena the idea that this is the "sleeping porch" of the metropolis. A little life to the lights, please.

For the time being "the most lightingest lights" might be used with the present standards. The merchants also should get their windows lit up to the nth degree. It would create more window shopping after the show each evening and redound in sales the next day.

Evidently the doctors do not agree with President Harding's program for prohibition enforcement. According to International News Service dispatches from San Francisco five resolutions dealing with various phases of the Volstead act were placed before the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association's seventy-fourth annual convention.

One charged that the provisions of the Volstead act force physicians to violate confidence of their patients. Another urged that the act be amended to insure the purity of liquor. A third would commend the association for "protection of constitutional rights, an organization of physicians, fighting for the removal of the Volstead law restrictions on physicians." Physicians who unethically prescribe liquor are censured in another.

While the doctors are discussing the right to prescribe liquor, a flying squadron of "dry crusaders" have invaded New York City to urge the strict enforcement of the prohibition laws.

It would appear that the wets and drys have organized a conspiracy similar to that engaged in by two lawyers in a county seat town back east. One would write a will for a rich old farmer, with a loophole in it for his colleague across the street to use in breaking the testament.

As a result the two lawyers kept the family fighting and got most of the estate for their work at court.

May not the same be true with the ardent prohibitionists who remain in the ring with the advocates of light wines and beer.

Surely someone is paying them or they would quit talking.

President Harding, on his western tour, has found a crop that inspires him to extemporaneous eulogy. At Bountiful, Utah, a village midway between Ogden and Salt Lake, a thousand people, mostly children, had gathered. He was prevailed upon to mount the steps of the town church while surrounded by 100 girls bearing a banner which bore the inscription, "Utah's Best Crop."

"Here is the best crop in the world," exclaimed the president. "For an hour we have been motoring through your beautiful, fertile valley, amid scenes of prosperity and contentment on all sides. Your crops are bountiful, your happiness is inspiring, but, most of all I love to contemplate this great crop of childhood. It is the most wonderful thing in the world.

"And I want to tell you, my countrymen, that nothing can ever go wrong with Utah, or with the republic, so long as it has a sturdy crop of American childhood.

"One of the finest inspirations that can come to a president is to get away from Washington and look upon such scenes as this. I have had my faith in America renewed this morning."

KIMLIN BUYING NEW EQUIPMENT

Glendale Sanitarium Head Returns July 1 From Eastern Tour

C. E. Kimlin, general manager of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, is expected back around July 1, according to C. F. White, assistant manager.

Mr. Kimlin left Glendale Thursday, June 7, on a three weeks' business trip east, during which he stopped at Colorado Springs, Colo.; Battle Creek, Mich.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Chicago, Ill.; New York, N. Y., and other points.

While in Colorado Springs, Mr. Kimlin attended the educational conference held there, together with Dr. H. G. Westphal, medical superintendent of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

From there, Mr. Kimlin and Dr. Westphal went on to Battle Creek and Chicago, where they separated, Mr. Kimlin going on to New York alone. Dr. Westphal will remain east another month, arriving back in this city somewhere around August 1.

While in Battle Creek, Mr. Kimlin visited the famous sanitarium there, where he formerly was an official. In Grand Rapids he made arrangements for certain of the furniture for the new sanitarium, while in New York he placed orders for hospital supplies and equipment to be used in outfitting this large modern $500,000 institution now rising in the northeast section of Glendale.

Mr. White states that the new home of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital is rapidly nearing completion and should be ready for occupancy about January 1, 1924.

A SAVAGE TIRE "AD"—WITH COMMENTS — No. 6 OF A SERIES

Most "ads" are designed to make you forget that you are reading an advertisement. When you read what we have to say, we prefer that you realize just what you are doing. We are making an open and above-board bid for your tire business on a fair and square basis and that's all there is to it. We have a message for you and we don't mind telling you how we propose to present it to you. By realizing our motives and what we wish to convey, you will understand our message all the better. If the methods employed are interesting—fine and dandy. The "ad", however, is the important thing and we prefer that you read it in preference to anything else.

Performance Proves

SAVAGE TIRES Are Built to Excel

An illustration and title that catches the eye and prepares the reader for the type of message to come has gone a long way toward making good—especially if it is interesting. Can't you just feel the need for good tires, when you look at a picture like this?

This line, together with the lettering and illustration above it, is a statement of fact. Without further elaboration our ad could stop here and still give you a complete message.

Almost any kind of a tire can give satisfactory service under ideal conditions. Some makes will perform nicely only on pavements, others will show to best advantage on dirt roads. Only the better grade of tires will perform satisfactorily under every condition.

The success of Savage Tires under the many varying conditions in the different territories in which they operate cannot be attributed to any one method employed, or compound used, or raw materials selected, but rather to the combination of them all. We have built our tires to perform exceptionally well under every type of condition and use. On the short or long hauls of the heavily loaded commercial vehicle, on the passenger car traveling over the hot roads of the sandy desert, the rocky trails of the mountains, or the broad dirt highways of the plains, or the smooth pavements of the city.

Performance, on the cars of thousands of satisfied users, proves we have really accomplished our purpose—everywhere.

A few remarks, by way of helping motorists to make a wise selection next time they are in the market, should not be out of place.

It's not a bad idea to let motorists know how many different kinds of Savage Tires there are. They will realize then that they can select a type best suited to their needs right from our line.

Now for the summing up! If any of these considerations are what you desire in a tire—we claim and sincerely believe there is no need for you to look further, since our tires have been built to give these to you.

We list the dealers' names under our ads so that it will be easy for prospective customers to get in touch with the people who are best prepared to give further information about our products.
